Annual Report
July 2009- June 2010

Foreword FOREWORD

Housing is integral to the well-being of a family and without the security and comfort of a home, it is difficult for a person to lead a normal life. Adequate housing is a fundamental human right a basic necessity for all, that cannot be denied in a fair and equitable society. As India is moving towards being one of the world's big economic powers, there still remain a lot of needy people who lack a decent place to live in, which they can call home. Keeping in view our commitment to build homes for the less fortunate, Habitat for Humanity India has constructed over 35,000 houses over the last 27 years.

In addition to building homes, Habitat is involved in integrated programs with components of livelihood, water and sanitation, disaster mitigation and preparedness which promote the improvement of the overall quality of people's lives. In line with this and realizing the importance of overall development of the families we assist, Habitat has been partnering with other NGOs who have been providing solutions in such areas as required thus giving a holistic approach to development.

For the past 27 years the spirit of volunteerism has been a great driving force in our achievements. For many years, volunteers all over the world, from all walks of life, have assisted us in our work with continuous dedication. Irrespective of the strata of society they belong to, the volunteers work shoulder to shoulder with needy families belonging to different caste, community, religion or social status which is a heartwarming experience.

As we complete another fruitful year of building affordable homes for the less fortunate, we look forward to a more successful year ahead by drawing nearer to our goal of eradicating homelessness. In the coming years Habitat will seek greater level of engagement with cross sections of service networks, corporate and government agencies to make a difference in the lives of the poor in building affordable homes, in transforming communities and in changing lives.

We are deeply grateful for the involvement and contribution of our donors, NGO partners, volunteers and individuals who shared our vision to make a difference in bringing about a change in the lives of many people, through shelter.

Alagunachi (25 years) and her husband Senthilkumar (27 years) reside with their two children Karthika (9 years) and Roshini (8 years) in Annamalai Quarry Narasingam, Othakadai, Madurai. Senthil Kumar works as a daily waged laborer in the stone quarry while his wife Alagunachi is a housewife. The family today is a proud Habitat Homeowner and are able to save money for their children and for unforeseen events. "All thanks to God and to Habitat for Humanity who have helped us fulfill our dream" remarks Senthil Kumar.

Senthil Kumar recalls his thatched roof house three years back. The family of four lived in a 160 sq. feet house. The walls had developed cracks and the floor was damaged. The roof leaked during the rains and water seeped through the walls. The earning of Senthil was insufficient to meet the regular repair requirements which was to the tune of Rs.2500 each year to replace their thatched roof. Even despite of the regular repairs the roof would leak during heavy rains, resulting in the family having to arrange for alternate shelter during the monsoons.

Alagunachi a member of the Self Help Group (SHG) had saved some money through this group. In one of SHG meetings she came to know about the repair and renovation program of Habitat for Humanity in partnership with the local NGO Partner, Maha Semam. She applied for the loan and after an in-depth processing of her Alagunachi was sanctioned a loan of Rs.12,000 to request, conduct permanent repairs on her house.

The thatched roof was replaced with a new tiled roof. The cracked walls were replastered, the damaged floor was redone and walls painted. The repaired house has drastically brought down the family's expenses on the repair work which they had to carry out on a regular basis earlier.

Alagunachi adds to this, "now we need not request our neighbours or relatives to accommodate us during the monsoons. Infact we can accommodate others. We can continue staying in our own house peacefully. The monthly installment of Rs.175 was easy and now when we have repaid back the total amount. We are proud that this is our home."

"I had no hope but to leave the village to earn, when I looked at my children. How was I to feed them, what had I left to secure their future and especially the immediate problem of my married daughter waiting for her 'Gauna.' looked me in my face". These are the words of Upender Saha one of those whose life changed completely when the floods came to his village. The floods took away everything, his belongings, and his livestock but fortunately spared the lives of his family members. Upender was left with four sons and a daughter to look after. He was at the crossroads, to go out of his village and work as a migrant laborer or to stay back and be with family but with nothing to earn for a living, the floods having destroyed everything.

When all around him seemed dark and hopeless the three goats given to him as a beneficiary of the ACC-HUL sponsored Habitat For Humanity Project "Ashreya" came as a ray of hope. Unexpectedly there was something he could look forward to. Now he need not leave his village. The goats provided were just the new beginning that Upender was looking for. "Now I can have a better 'gauna' for my daughter than even her wedding." The local custom requires that after the wedding the girl continue to stay with her parents till the 'gauna' ceremony of moving into her husband's house takes place.

But along with the ceremony comes the custom of sending off the daughter with new household goods as she begins her married life. This was the biggest concern for Upender as he did not have the money to perform the 'gauna'. But now with the goats that he has acquired he is confident that very soon he will be able to save a reasonably good amount to see that his daughter is sent off happily. "You know, to see that a daughter is married and sent to her husband's house in the most satisfying thing for a father" he says with a assured smile on his face.

Upender is not just upbeat about his daughter but now dreams of a better future for his sons. Sitting next to his goats, he tries to feed them some grass, "I will take good care of them," he remarks; "true that the goats would have to be given back to the self help groups, but I am sure that with the offspring's I get from them I can make a good living in the future". Upender is now confident that he will be able to slowly rebuild his house and collect belongings, which was destroyed in the floods. "Now I need not leave my village and go to the city, why should I, my family, friends, relatives are here and more importantly my source of income is also here", he says contended.
